To whom it may concern

We brought Adam Lev Libfeld on board as our Chief Architect to assist with the planning and execution of major structural changes.

His work helped us improve the performance of our bioinformatics SaaS, lowering computation time and cost by around 40%.

Adam's Architecture diagrams and process analysis documents helped our sales team streamline the technical sales process by making it easier to inform prospective clients about our architecture and the security measures we have taken (and will be taking in the future), as part of that process he had also ensured our company would comply with GDPR, HIPAA and SOC2 type 2, worked with suppliers and auditors and joined client meetings to plan for future demands, effectively operating as acting CISO.

We are sad to see Adam go, and would wish him good luck in his future endeavors.
